Recent Developments

Investors entered the new year concerned with medical, economic and political challenges. In the U.S., the Democrats won control of the Senate, paving the way for the new administration to pass a larger stimulus package. Fiscal policy relief did not immediately allay investor concerns over increased COVID-19 cases and the impact of renewed lockdown measures. However, views changed rapidly as the vaccine rollout gathered pace and the prospect for an economic reopening crystallized. Economists quickly altered forecasts predicting a stronger recovery and higher inflation. Reassurance from the Federal Reserve that short rates would remain near zero, coupled with government support for the economy proved good news for equity markets but less so for bond markets as yields moved sharply higher for much of the year.

As inflation pushed to its highest level since the 1980s, government bond yields rose. Central bankers began to increasingly signal that higher interest rates were on the way some time in 2022. The view that higher inflation was only transient increasingly fell by the wayside as cost pressures and higher wage demands were also drivers of the higher inflation numbers.

In Canada, the housing market continued to be strong. Continued low mortgage rates was the main driver. Higher commodity prices also brightened the prospects for exports and business investment. Low interest rates also propelled risky assets upward and equity markets posted double digit returns for the year.

Signs of rampant speculation were increasingly apparent as the year wore on, whether it was in crypto-currencies, growth in very speculative venture capital deals, or the low and shrinking compensation lenders earned from high yield bonds.

The emergence of the Omicron variant late in the year contributed to a market sell-off, especially in technology names with high valuations and for bonds to regain some of the value lost from earlier in the year. However, the bond rally was short lived and Canso expects selloffs to continue as rising yields will deflate asset values for some time. This will come as a shock to younger investors who have never experienced negative returns from bonds. In Canso's view, the outlook for financial asset returns is not optimistic, with the greatest risk in highly valued or highly levered investments.

Credit spread tightening in the pandemic affected issuers and protection from rising short interest rates led performance higher in the year. Spreads continued to tighten after hitting decade wide levels in early 2020. Pandemically affected companies rebounded as economies continue to normalize

The Fund is improving credit quality and reducing duration risk by investing in high-quality, liquid positions, including NHA MBS pools and investment-grade floating rate notes. The weight in AAA/AA rated securities increased to 31.0% from 24.2% at the beginning of the year, while the weight in floating rate securities doubled from 13.8% to 48.0%. Floating rate exposure allows the Fund to mitigate interest rate risk while still being able to benefit from credit spread tightening. Canso continues to only take on duration when, in Canso's view, the Fund is being compensated for the incremental interest rate risk. As a result of the large floating rate position, duration of the Fund is now 1.9 years, meaningfully below the benchmark duration of 6.7 years.

There have been no changes to the Manager or Portfolio Manager, or change of control of the Manager, or of the Fund. There have been no actual or planned reorganizations, mergers or similar transactions.

There were no changes to the membership of the Fund's Independent Review Committee ("IRC").

Notes

- The information is derived from the Fund's audited annual financial statements. All per unit figures presented are referenced to net assets determined in accordance to IFRS.
- Net assets and distributions are based on the actual numbers of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase (decrease) from operations is based on the weighted average number of units outstanding over the financial period. This table is not intended to be a reconciliation of beginning to ending net assets per unit.
- Distributions were paid in cash or reinvested in additional units, or both.
- This information is provided at the end of the period shown.
- The management expense ratio is based on the total expenses of the period ended and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset values during the period.
- The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio manager manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period. The higher a fund's portfolio turnover rate in a period, the greater the trading costs payable by the fund in the period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a fund. The portfolio turnover rate is calculated based on the lesser of purchases or sales of securities divided by the weighted average market value of portfolio securities, excluding short term securities.
- The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period.
