Recent Developments

However, economic growth expectations were pared back later in the period, and replaced with greater levels of economic uncertainty with the announcement of certain US trade and economic policies - namely, the announcement of the “Liberation Day” reciprocal tariffs in the US on April 2nd, and the subsequent pause on those tariffs announced on April 9th; and the announcement of the One, Big, Beautiful Bill in the US on May 20, 2025.

During the period, the Bank of Canada reduced its overnight policy rate twice, each by 25bps, to end the period at a level of 2.75%. In their March 2025 policy rate announcement, the Bank of Canada noted: “Economic growth in the first quarter of 2025 will likely slow as the intensifying trade conflict weighs on sentiment and activity”.

During the period, the Federal Reserve (the “Fed”) kept the upper bound of the Fed Funds Target Rate steady at a level of 4.5%. The Fed’s policy stance reflected cautiousness over mixed economic data releases – especially between “soft” survey-based data and “hard” real economic data – and the potential for a resurgence of inflation.

1 The information is derived from the Fund's unaudited semi-annual and/or audited annual financial statements. All per unit figures presented are referenced to net assets determined in accordance to IFRS Accounting Standards as issued by the International Accounting Standards Board ("IASB").

2 Net assets and distributions are based on the actual numbers of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase (decrease) from operations is based on the weighted average number of units outstanding over the financial period. This table is not intended to be a reconciliation of beginning to ending net assets per unit.

3 Distributions were paid in cash or reinvested in additional units, or both.

4 This information is provided at the end of the period shown.

5 The management expense ratio ("MER") is based on the total expenses of the period ended, including the Fund's proportionate share of the MER, if any, of any underlying fund in which the Fund has invested, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period.

6 The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio manager manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period. The higher a fund's portfolio turnover rate in a period, the greater the trading costs payable by the fund in the period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a fund. The portfolio turnover rate is calculated based on the lesser of purchases or sales of securities divided by the weighted average market value of portfolio securities, excluding short term securities.

7 The trading expense ratio ("TER") represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period. Where the Fund invests in any underlying fund, the TER includes the Fund's proportionate share of the commissions of any underlying fund in which the Fund invested.
